OPM Marks Public Service Recognition Week With Appreciation for Federal Workforce

Washington, D.C. – The U.S. Office of Personnel Management (OPM) is proud to join agencies across the federal government in celebrating Public Service Recognition Week, which runs from May 5–11, 2025. This annual event honors the dedication of public servants who work every day to improve the lives of the American people—from processing veterans’ benefits to defending our national security.

“We are tremendously grateful to our federal employees and recognize their commitment to public service,” OPM Acting Director Chuck Ezell said.

“During Public Service Recognition week, we especially recognize federal employees as the backbone of a functioning government and this strong nation.”

Throughout the week, OPM will highlight outstanding public servants within OPM on X, celebrating the contributions of agency staff who go above and beyond in service to the American people and federal workforce.
